

To my shame, I burned sackbuts of political papers as I was instructed to prepare the shop for sale.

I still have the ledgers and papers proving I had increased sales and even a shop nearby went bankrupt.

I remember suggesting to my father he could retire to the house up in the 'Gareloch' and sell the shop.

Incidentally, Uncle Frank's brother-Norman Leech was 'Superintendent' of all the 'Parks' in Blackpool. Also had been in the 'Navy' as well as Frank.

I will continue to search for photos and letters, etc.

I do remember photos of groups at the front of shop and Mr Wilson and friends.

Uncle Frank's sister 'Ivy' had a son called 'Jack' Rippon who may well still be living in 'Carnegie' in Glasgow.

I think he worked in Glasgow's Newspaper Industry.

Like my father, I keep all papers and letters of old.

I am the last of a family of five.

My nephew 'William Seech' lived at Seedhill Rd and was a 'Chemist' in Paisley. But he had a broken marriage and lost the shop.

Uncle 'Frank' was my 'hero' and I am still appalled about burning so much.

I am posting a separate envelope.

Sincerely
Frank Seech.
